Celebrate our community college status and

Catch the Spirit

The spirit of Cleveland Community College has always been that of a small school with an "everybody-knows-everybody-else" down-home atmosphere. The campus is accessible, the staff friendly. This spirit received a huge boost, however, in July of last year when the North Carolina General Assembly ratified House Bill 52, converting Cleveland Technical College to a community college.

The major change resulting from our newly attained community college status was the addition of a college transfer program which provides educational opportunities for students who are limited by financial resources, familial obligations, and other adult responsibilities. The offering of courses leading to the Associate of Arts and Associate of Science degrees began with the Fall quarter, 1987.

The addition of a college transfer program to the college's numerous vocational and technical offerings means CCC is responding to the needs of our community and to the needs of a student population working toward personal growth and professional development.

Except for a new sort of energy that came with a sense of accomplishment and the prospect of new horizons, the atmosphere of the college remained unchanged. We're still a small school with a friendly staff, and everyone knows virtually everyone else. But it was that new energy we celebrated. Here's to renewed vitality, new purpose, and continued growth, as we all Catch the Spirit of Cleveland Community College!

Talk about spirit—over 1300 students turned out for the first Cleveland Community College registration.

Changes in course titles and credit hours stymie both staff and students the first time around.

Part of the new spirit centers around the physical education program, for which the field house was constructed.

A new attitude grows as the people of CCC

Catch the Spirit

The energy of CCC originates with its people—the students, faculty, and staff. Program offerings attract a wide variety of personalities, and with the addition of college transfer programs, yet another breed of student can meet his or her educational needs here at CCC. Teenagers fresh from high school explore career possibilities; professionals in search of new inspiration take special interest courses; businesses and industry send their employees being groomed for promotion; the young and old alike return to complete high school requirements; and Continuing Education classes attract anyone who has a hobby or wants to discover one!

Those who comprise the staff at CCC are an important part of its spirit as well. The enthusiasm and expertise of our instructors bring to each class a special challenge to consider new possibilities. Our instructors share of themselves and invite their students to grow in many directions.

All these people contribute to the spirit of CCC—a spirit of achievement, growth, and success.

Faculty-team members rev up for the annual softball showdown between students and staff.

Frank Pullen's P.E. class gets ready for a workout.

Fashion Merchandising instructor Myra Morrison continually reflects the new spirit of CCC with her enthusiasm for teaching.

Program possibilities help students

Catch the Spirit

Program offerings at CCC are as varied as the students themselves. The General Education and Communications Department offers college transfer programs and associate degrees in General Education and Communications Technology. Two-year degrees in Accounting & Business are also available. The Industrial Management curriculum trains those interested in supervisory and middle-management positions in industry, while the Computer Programming Department prepares individuals to do just that. Career possibilities continue with Executive Secretarial, Medical Secretarial, and General Office Technology degrees for those interested in office-related duties in particular fields. The same department offers Fashion Merchandising & Marketing Technology where students learn the fundamentals of buying, merchandising, and inventory planning and control. Other two-year programs include Criminal Justice degrees, X-Ray Technology, and Electronic Engineering. Diploma credit programs include air conditioning, auto body repair, auto mechanics, carpentry and cabinetmaking, diesel truck maintenance, electrical installation and servicing, food service specialist, industrial maintenance, machinist, plumbing, and welding. CCC's nursing department also offers a Vocational diploma in Practical Nurse Education. Finally, there are a variety of non-credit programs running the gamut from general adult education to teachers' certificate renewal to continuing education classes.

Curriculum Offerings

The Arts and Sciences Department offers a variety of Associate Degree Programs—Radiologic Technology, Criminal Justice (with Corrections, Law Enforcement, and Security options), General Education, and Communications Technology. These programs are popular with students planning to transfer to 4-year institutions. The Visiting Artist program is also a part of the Arts & Sciences Department, bringing multi-talented artists to Cleveland County to share his/her work for two years at a time. Our current Visiting Artist is singer-musician-actress-director Paula Larke.

Degrees and Programs

The Allied Services Department at CCC offers an Associate in Applied Science degree in Electronic Engineering Technology, as well as vocational diplomas in Air Conditioning, Heating and Refrigeration; Auto Body Repair; Auto Mechanics; Carpentry and Cabinetmaking*; Diesel Vehicle (Truck) Mechanics; Electrical Installation and Maintenance; Electronic Servicing; Food Service Specialist*; Industrial Maintenance; Machinist; Plumbing and Pipefitting*; Welding; and Practical Nursing.

* offered at prison unit only.

Auto Body Repair, like other vocational programs, has opened its doors to include women.

Welding offers students extremely marketable skills.

In our electronic world, electronic technicians will be in big demand.

Nursing students get classroom
instruction as well
as on-site training.

A skill of the Food Service Specialist is preparing food in large quantities.

Carpentry students get instruction in mathematics, blueprint reading, and methods of construction

Lab work gives Electrical Installation & Maintenance students practical experience.

Programs and Resources

These departments are, logically, adjacent to one another. The LRC provides books, films, and tapes, a closed-circuit TV system, and Cable access Channel 22. A variety of programs are sponsored by Industry/Community Service, including: continuing education programs, basic adult education and high school programs, teachers' certificate renewal, GED, and the Small Business Center.

Computers are used in teaching new skills.

Learning to use the card catalog is the key to locating materials in the library.

The LRC aids in preparing student ID's.

HRD students get pre-vocational training and counseling.

Illiteracy is a very real concern in Cleveland County; CCC's ABLE Center helps combat the problem.

Teacher of the Year

Renee Byars Allison received the 1987 Teacher of the Year Award. Sponsored by Gamma Beta Phi honor society, this prestigious award is selected by a process of student nominations, interviews by a GBP committee, with final voting by the CCC faculty.

A business computer programming instructor, Renee joined the faculty full-time in 1983.

"What I like about teaching here," Renee explains, "is that the people who come out here really want to learn. It changes the way they feel about themselves. She continues, "You always come across better when you are doing something you love. My students laugh at me for getting so excited over stuff, but we have just scratched the surface; there is always something new."

Renee's hobbies include painting, growing roses, and reading mysteries. She and her husband and daughters live in the Camps Creek community.

Carl Hopper presents the award.

Renee's excitement about teaching is usually caught by her students.

Teacher of the Year

Dr. Charles Reynolds (more affectionately known as "Charlie") hails from Pittsfield, MA, and has been at CCC for 5 years. He previously taught at the University of Nebraska and the University of Idaho. In addition to teaching, Charlie has a wide variety of interests. He's played semi-pro baseball and both played and coached hockey. And, as we all know, Charlie loves the movies. He's appeared in a dozen feature films at EO

Studios and in numerous commercial films. Charlie would like to resume writing movie scripts and plans to do more acting. On teaching, he says every class has its own personality. "I hope we can get away from cookie cutter education—we should tailor the process to that personality." It's this philosophy toward teaching, and toward students, that helped Charlie gain recognition as 1988 Teacher of the Year. Congratulations!

Yvonne Koontz, Gamma Beta Phi member, makes the presentation.

Charlie demonstrates filming to a Media Production class.

Charlie looks on as his students film this uncommon scene.

Working together, editing a piece of film.

Some students actually listen to lectures . . .

. . . and others actually enjoy them!

Grits and Redeye Gravy?

Tagako Yamamoyto came to the U.S. from Japan in 1986 for two reasons: to learn to speak fluent English and study Computer Programming. But she's also learned a great deal about American culture in general and Southern culture specifically. For example, Tagako quickly added "ya'll" to her vocabulary and was initiated into our grits-and-redeye-gravy breakfast. Tagako chose both the South and Tech after meeting Jean Teague, an American missionary in Japan, and while here made her home with Jean. Tagako plans to return to Japan in late 1987 and hopes to work for an international company. She takes with her memories that will last a lifetime.

"I don't give up . . ."

Deller Sims' face is familiar on two counts—she's a student in the Executive Secretarial curriculum and secretary to the Co-operative Education program here at CCC. Anyone who knows Deller comments on her drive and determination. "I don't stop until I accomplish my goal; I don't give up," Deller says. She believes in the strength of the individual and in encouraging youngsters to "do what they want, even if it seems hard."

Deller, her husband, and their son enjoy doing things as a family—trips to the park, cookouts—true quality time together.

Truly One of Our Own

"On the job training" exists in its purest form in the case of Gena Kinsey. Gena is currently a second year Secretarial student here at CCC, and is practicing her career as Secretary to the Director of the Small Business Center. A counselor here at the College helped Gena make some career decisions prior to her enrolling at CCC. Further guidance from her teachers has helped Gena to gain additional skills and confidence. Gena is a Cleveland County native and is married.

Co-Op in Action

Joy Hamrick has real plans for herself. At present, Joy is enrolled in the General Education program at CCC. During the day, Joy is a Teacher's Assistant at James Love School. Her education and her work are part of her plan to transfer to Gardner-Webb and study Elementary Education. Working in the Cooperative Education program at CCC gives Joy credit for part of her work hours, as well as a very special type of experience. Joy is married and has three children of her own. From the looks on the faces of her students, she's definitely in a career that provides true satisfaction.

The Future Looks Bright

"Electronics has been a hobby of mine for a long time, so I thought I'd pursue it as a career," says CCC student Ron Evans. This simple statement is a secret long known by those who enjoy their work, and thus enjoy life. Ron is putting his skills to work at Timken Lincolnton Bearing Plant as he works toward his goal of becoming an Electrical Specialist, setting up and repairing electronic programmable controllers. His experience and education will allow him to more quickly move into the electrical department, which normally takes two years. Besides his career in electronics, Ron serves as Associate Minister of Ramseur Baptist Church. He and his family live in Shelby.

Second Annual Career Day

Held February 25, 1987, all 11th and 12th graders in Cleveland County were invited to attend Career Day activities. The occasion gave the students a chance to learn about career and employment opportunities in our area. Speakers came from across N.C. to present information on possibilities ranging from business, legal and medical, social services, and military careers. More than 1200 Cleveland County juniors and seniors participated in the event.

Visiting Artist

Paula Larke, a native of Winston Salem, came to CCC in the summer of '87. She brought with her an incredible talent—singing, acting, directing, you name it. Paula has toured with a variety of productions, as well as having performed on Broadway. She has gotten involved in our community both through her music and through her association with service agencies, such as the Abuse Prevention Council, on whose Board she serves.

The Visiting Artist Program is a joint venture of the Dept. of Community Colleges and the N.C. Arts Council. CCC has participated in the program since its inception.

The spirit of CCC comes alive in a wide variety of campus events. Vocational Day gives local high school students a chance to compete in skills such as bricklaying and carpentry.

Ceramics classes, and the Mud Masters present a ceramics show each year.

And the Christmas spirit fills the school as CCC faculty and staff have an opportunity to relax with one another at their annual party.

C ollege Transfer Day

Becoming a Community College gains CCC participation in the Community / Junior College tour. On January 30, approximately 30 college representatives were available to answer questions for students considering a transfer to a 4-year school.

In addition to having questions answered by these representatives, CCC's Students Services provides access to catalogs from most of N.C.'s 4-year colleges and universities, including information sheets detailing what will transfer from CCC to these schools. This tour will be an annual event at CCC.

Brochures and catalogs are a good way to compare institutions.

New transferability prospects are exciting to students ready to make a choice.

Transferring doesn't always mean moving across the state!

Students compare the finer points of transferring—academic programs, athletics, size of the college . . .

SMALL BUSINESS CENTER

Small Business Center

The SBC provides educational, informational, and referral services to small business owners and operators in Cleveland County. Throughout the year, a variety of workshops, seminars, and continuing ed courses provide training for small business operators and employees.

Also available is a resource center of reference materials and special assistance via a network of referral services to chambers of commerce, banks, etc. Consultative services are also offered through cooperation with the Service Corps of Retired Executives and ACE.

Former Kings Mountain Mayor John H. Moss attended the Insurance Update seminar; he's shown here with SBC Director Ann Smevog Langley.

Valentine's Day is traditionally for lovers, but this year CCC's love affair is with food! Le Club de Esprit held a fundraiser, capitalizing on the upcoming occasion; proceeds went toward the club's trip to New York City. "Special deliveries" and a spirit of fun made the event a "sweet" one.

Annual Staff

Most people have no idea how much work goes into putting a yearbook together. It took 11 months to complete this book—11 months of designing layouts, trying to capture on film every campus event that took place, identifying never-before-seen faces in candid photographs, and generally trying to remain creative and enthusiastic. We hope our efforts reflect the spirit of CCC, a spirit of achievement and growth. But most of all, we hope you enjoy seeing in retrospect how you spent the past year here at CCC. Perhaps you'll have the opportunity to see again a forgotten friend or to relive a moment of pure fun—that's what a yearbook is truly about—recording a piece of history so we can hold on to our memories.

The end of an era

Catch the Spirit

It's said that growth is a process, not an event—and a neverending process at that. The past year has been one of much growth for Cleveland Community College. Achieving community college status was a dream come true for many of us, even though "Cleveland Tech" still rolls off the tongue occasionally in a moment of nostalgia. The past year also saw the last of the old buildings torn down, and "old timers" swallowed back their sentimentality as part of CCC's past truly became history. It's a fitting time to acknowledge that the spirit of our school has always been one of togetherness, caring, and involvement. And this spirit will have an even greater opportunity to flourish as we face our next spurt of growth.

The Student Activity Center currently under construction will be completed in the summer of 1989. This new facility will include an auditorium, meeting rooms and offices, a gameroom, student lounge, and an indoor track. In addition, an amphitheatre will be located on campus. With these new facilities CCC will reach the end of another phase of growth.

Nothing breeds new spirit as change does. The next few years at CCC will be exciting ones of continued growth and refinement. We hope you'll be here to share it!

Retirees

Frances Morgan and Col. Pat Hamner retired in December of 1987 (above photo); Haley Dedmond will follow in June, 1988 (see photo at right). These are familiar faces at CCC, ones which will be missed. They have been a tremendous part of the spirit of the school. Although they will be missed, the contributions they've made will never allow them to be forgotten.
